

at
ous
NG,
on,
en,
th's

W.
at
HIM
50
gross

ND
RE,
ho-
H.
his
AY,

for
Par-
age,
of
and
e.
will
un

354
nits,
sell
ED-
ock,

351

AY,
PES
sold

1

ERS,
republic
DAY
452,
ins
teen,

and
blems,
and

and
re-
le by
t, the
sorge-
ERY,

344
Parties

I sell
of Mr.
URS-
at ten
fectly
413

the owner, who is desired to be prepared to produce them at the trial if required. Mr.

wherein only a small part has been recovered; the rest irretrievably lost to the prosecution.

[illegible]

ation wish to enjoy the name and the reality being the "Great Unwashed," let them great themselves after their own fashion, but then not inflict upon others, whose tastes and feelings and habits may be different, the severest of human privations in such a climate as the want of the pure element which Almighty goodness has so graciously bestowed upon the day. If these people only wasted their strength in petty squabbles and retributions, if they would be simply objects of ridicule and contempt, but without doing harm, it would be better than what is now the case. They are, and invested with powers to promote the comfort of the inhabitants, they establish a system of laws, which are not only in some some arbitrary and capricious way productive of a general evil, they become a positive and active measure to be taken to get rid of.

 I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,
 Your obedient servant,
 W. OSBORNE, ESQ., M.P.,
 ORIGINAL POETRY.

IN AUSTRALIA.
By K. S.

[illegible]

That warm spot is the spot of earth
Where first it breathed—what's her fault?

ENGLISH NEWS.

THE GREAT EXHIBITION.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9.—The receipts amounted to £227 2s, the number of visitors being 10,342.

Saturday.—The number of visitors was 17,395, and the receipts £1604 13s.

Monday.—The receipts amounted to £298 5s, the number of visitors being 29,394.

Tuesday. The total number of visitors was 50,322, and the amount received £2381 7s.

Wednesday.—The receipts amounted to £257 12s, the number of visitors being 34,540.

Thursday.—The receipts amounted to £237 11s, the number of visitors being 57,183.

CLOSING OF THE EXHIBITION OF THE CHINESE PALACE.—The following is generally believed to be the upon a raised stage in the centre of the transept for the accommodation of Miss A. B. ...

[illegible]

TEMPERATURE OF THE GREAT EXTINCTION.

The first day of July promised many experiments at the Great Exhibition. Perhaps not the first day, but certainly the most interesting. On that day, fifty or sixty thousand persons, and, I think, fifteen under one huge glass cover, without any other means of ventilation, were crowded together. That is, thirty or thirty-five hours together. That is, a thermometer, I mean, and the Executive had the thermometer at all their own way throughout the month of July. I think that the thermometer was very kindly set in on the 25th of April, from which day the mean temperature continued to rise, and it was not until the 1st of May, preceding ten years, as much as 5° Fahrenheit up to the 14th of June—after which the open thermometer was set in, and the mean temperature of the day was taken, and the mean temperature of the day amounted to 64°: the 18th showing 64.8, and the 19th, 74.

something must be done; and matters grew worse till the 26th, when the thermometer re-

[illegible]

Monday, the 7th of July, glazed arches various parts in the galleries were moved. After this the temperature of the galleries and the ground floor became more uniform, and were found to be under control. Fifty thousand pairs of lungs enjoyed daily the constant current of fresh air. This kept the visitors comfortable till the 19th July, when Saturn with its five-shilling admission, brought a large attendance (3824). The first audience came from heat to cold was instantly felt throughout the building. Down went Fahrenheit to

National Library of Australia http://nla.gov.au/nla_news-page3860

